P464 -Kidney Patient Involvement Network (KPIN)

David Coyle², Professor Paula Ormandy¹

¹University of Salford, , ²Device for Dignity, ,

Our aims:

- Increasing the impact of the patient and carer voice through meaningful involvement.
- Developing and embedding quality standards for the involvement of patients and carers.
- Creating a network to share good patient involvement practice, to collate and develop resources, offer peer support, and provide training to increase knowledge and number of patient leaders.

Who we are:

KPIN is a network of kidney organisations, charities, academic institutions and individuals committed to quality public involvement and engagement (PPI/E) who are willing to work collaboratively in initiatives to improve standards and develop patient leaders of the future. We welcome all patient and clinician members from across the UK and all backgrounds of kidney care. Our network is also a British Renal Society Special Interest Group.
